

REMOTE WORK including Remote Regression & Remote Spirit Releasement

This is the application of the same principles of Transpersonal Hypnotherapy (Regression Therapy, Spirit Releasement, etc.) but the work is done through or with the presence of a surrogate for the client without the physical presence of the client. When doing Remote Work the surrogate either witnesses the client's presence and healing process or becomes the client participating in this therapy at the subconscious level. Through this connection the surrogate has the experience of the client's feelings, significant memory recalls, and inner experiences, spirit attachments and the healing and releasement processes.

Though clients or subjects usually have no conscious recall of the "remote" process, often they are aware of the differences in how they feel in themselves and the differences in how others in their life seem to be responding to them and with them. In a very classic case, one client repeated the very same words and phrases that she had expressed in the remote session through the surrogate three months prior. She had had no knowledge of the use of those phrases by her through the surrogate in that remote session.

Appropriate Applications of Remote Work This has been effectively used with young children, where vivid recall of "past lives" may otherwise have been too traumatic.

It has also been effectively used with clients of therapists where their client has seemed "stuck". The effect has usually been an opening that easily facilitates further work between the therapist and client.

Our application of Remote Work has been successful in many other circumstances including those where the client/subject could not be physically present due to various factors and where phone work would not have been appropriate. We have seen Remote Work applied successfully in family dynamic situations where it has had a positive and significant healing outcome not only on the client/subject, but also on the whole of the family and their core relationships.

Other Surrogates: Sometimes a parent of a child or a volunteer may be a very appropriate surrogate for a subject/client in a remote session.

Number of Remote Sessions: Sometimes several sessions are required, depending upon the request and intention. Some cases only require one session for the client or observer to see significant changes.
